Browsing

The symbol  means that the full text of that journal is available.

The list of journals automatically displays in alphabetical order. To rearrange the order by subject, click in the List of Journals section and change the display menu from All Journals (A-Z) to All Journals by Subject.

Selecting All Journals by Subject allows browsing by subject heading.

Click on  to expand the list of further subjects or journals under each heading.

Click on the title of a journal to access it.

Selecting Subscribed Journals will ensure any results are full text articles.

The contents page for the issues is displayed next. To view the full text of an article, click on either the Full Text Article or PDF icons.

Click on a journal title to see the list of issues available, and then click on the issue you require.

Searching

Use the Advanced Search box to look up a topic or keywords. When you enter a word, words, or a specific phrase in the search field, you can join these words with AND, OR, and AND NOT to focus your search. Use quotation marks to indicate a phrase.

Examples

“unemployment rate”

Aboriginal OR Indigenous

negligence AND defamation

trust AND NOT family

nursing – will also return variations such as nurse, nurses etc.

The screenshot shows the 'Advanced Search' interface. At the top, there are three tabs: 'Simple Search', 'Advanced Search' (which is selected), and 'Crossref Search'. Below the tabs, there are three 'Keywords' input fields. The first field contains the text 'trust AND NOT family'. To the right of these fields are dropdown menus for 'NOT', 'AND', and 'OR'. A 'Search' button is located to the right of the second and third keyword fields. Below the search fields, there are several sections for narrowing the search. The 'Search In:' section has radio buttons for 'All Journals', 'Favorite Journals', 'Journals with full access rights', 'The Journal', and 'The Subject Discipline and Group'. The 'The Journal' section has a dropdown menu with 'Abacus' selected. The 'The Subject Discipline and Group' section has two dropdown menus: 'Select Discipline' and 'Select Subject Group'. The 'Search In:' section also has radio buttons for 'All content' and 'Content between these cover dates:'. The 'Content between these cover dates:' section has two date pickers: 'Jan 2005' and 'Jan 2005', with 'and' between them. At the bottom, there are options for 'Order results:' (radio buttons for 'by relevancy' and 'by date (latest first)'), 'Display summaries on results page:' (radio buttons for 'yes' and 'no'), and 'Display results in groups of:' (a dropdown menu with '20' selected). A 'Search' button is also located at the bottom right. Four callout boxes with arrows point to specific elements: 1. 'Click on the Advanced Search button under Further Search Options in the Search box on the homepage.' (points to the 'Advanced Search' tab). 2. 'Type your keywords or phrases in the search boxes, choosing the fields you want to search in, eg, Keywords, Full text, Author. You can search for more than one keyword or phrase, combining them as shown in the examples above.' (points to the keyword input fields). 3. 'Select the journal title from the pull down menu or the subject area you want to search. You can also narrow your search by date.' (points to the 'The Journal' dropdown and the date pickers). 4. 'When you have entered your keywords and selected options, click the Search button.' (points to the 'Search' button at the bottom right).

A Duration-sensitive Measure of the Unemployment Rate: Theory and Application

Vani K. Borooah

Abstract. The measurement of unemployment, like that of poverty, involves two distinct steps: identification and aggregation. In this two-step process, the
