STUDENT SUPPORT

SCU INTERNATIONAL
SCU International has a dedicated team committed to helping international students from application to acceptance and throughout your studies. Our student support team has been recognised for their outstanding support in the 2018 International Student Support Barometer, an independent benchmarking survey.

AMBASSADORS
Our student ambassadors are carefully selected international students who work with our international student support team. Their role is to provide a point of contact for new students, having experienced the same challenges of living and studying in a new country. Ambassadors mentor students, organise and participate in events and coordinate volunteering. They provide invaluable support for international students coming into an unfamiliar environment, a new culture and language without the familiar support of their families.

UNIMENTOR – CONNECTING STUDENTS
When you are starting out at university as a new student, it can sometimes feel daunting. That’s why we have developed the UniMentor program, to help make the transition easier for you. We will connect you with an experienced student mentor studying in the same discipline area as you. Your UniMentor is in touch with the academic and social challenges of university life, as they have already ‘been there’ and ‘done that’.

Regular meetings with your UniMentor can help you gain positive, empowering advice and support. UniMentors can advise on a range of student issues, from the best way to navigate an online study environment to where to buy text books.

You and your mentor can meet face-to-face, communicate online via email, or catch up on Facebook and other social media sites. The UniMentor program is available to commencing undergraduate on-campus and online students and is coordinated by the Equity and Diversity Office.

In my class, we learn not only English, but also about Aboriginal culture. There are many chances to speak English in class, instead of just listening to what the teachers say. I think it is a good trait. Thanks to kind and enthusiastic teachers, my English is getting better. I have made many new friends from China, Japan, Brazil, France and Australia. They are kind and funny.

Every Saturday I volunteer at the koala hospital. It is a wonderful opportunity for me and is the reason I chose to study here because I really wanted to know the Australian animals. On weekends my host family takes me to many places: beaches, spots where we can see beautiful views, and the homes of relatives. They are so kind and lovely.

The quiet environment is suitable for study and the people who live here are very kind. There are many things that I didn’t realise in Japan, and studying abroad has made me more broad-minded.

Guillaume Basurko - France

English for Academic Purposes graduate
Graduate Diploma of Indigenous Knowledge student

Guillaume has had a longstanding interest in Indigenous peoples. While working as an engineer for non-government organisations in Peru, he spent time interacting with traditional owners in the Andes. This led him to Southern Cross University, where he is on track to complete the Graduate Diploma of Indigenous Knowledge through the University’s Gnibi College of Indigenous Australian Peoples at Lismore campus.

“Before I could start the degree I had to get an English language qualification to meet the IELTS requirements, so I studied English for Academic Purposes (EAP) at Lismore campus. It was a great course where I learned about referencing, and had to write an essay, a report, an annotated bibliography plus do oral presentations. Doing these assignments and getting really good feedback from the lecturers gave me the confidence to undertake a postgraduate degree in English language. The EAP course also introduced me to Southern Cross’ online student portal MySCU that has access to course resources, so I was able to easily jump straight into my postgraduate studies. After my studies I would like to work with Australian Indigenous communities. I’m taking it a step at a time,” he said.

BACHELOR OF ARTS
BACHELOR OF SOCIAL WELFARE
MASTER OF SOCIAL WORK (PROFESSIONAL QUALIFYING)
Craig Blandon
Bachelor of Social Welfare graduate
Master of Social Work (Professional Qualifying) student
Peer support officer, Momentum Collective

For Craig Blandon, helping people is in his DNA. After a career as a NSW firefighter spanning more than 14 years, Craig is currently completing his Master of Social Work (Professional Qualifying) at Southern Cross University.

Colleagues seeking his advice on issues at work was a catalyst for Craig to look at upskilling. “I found that a few of my work colleagues were coming up to me and just wanting to have a chat about certain incidents and I thought well, at the moment I’m not really qualified to do that,” he says.

He currently divides his time between working as a firefighter and as peer support at Lismore-based Momentum Collective, an organisation that provides support with complex and difficult issues of domestic family violence, homelessness, and mental health.

“I’ve always enjoyed learning. If I knew I could have handled my studies and work as a firefighter, I would have done this a long time ago. I just didn’t think that university was for me at all.

“Attaining my Masters and professionally qualifying as a social worker is my goal. I’m really looking forward to working further in the mental health space.”

Southern Cross media graduate Nick Gerber fell in love with radio when he was a student. “One of our assignments was listening to different programs and trying to work out how they were put together technically and that just really turned me on to radio and particularly Triple J – to work there became my dream,” he says.

It was a dream he pursued relentlessly, until he was offered a junior producer position at Triple J. Since then, he has worked on the Hottest 100, the Like a Version segment, as a lead producer on Breakfast with Ben and Liam and even live broadcasting from Splendour in the Grass.

Nick now works as a producer across the Drive and Breakfast programs on Triple J, also filtering callers and lining up talent for Dr Karl’s popular science program on ABC radio. “I’d say the most important personal characteristics for a successful career in media are resilience and passion. There are no jobs for life anymore, especially in media, and you have to be ready to adapt.”

Ex-pro surfer and osteopath

Bec Woods started surfing when she was just 12. She qualified for the world tour when she was 19 and was among the world’s top female surfers for nine years, a career that saw her travel to the top surf breaks in the world.

A shoulder injury early in her surfing career piqued Bec’s interest in studying osteopathy.

“After three or four different therapists it was an osteopath who diagnosed me properly and referred me to a specialist. I saw firsthand how osteopathy can really help people,” she says.

She entered Southern Cross as part of the Elite Student Athlete Program and hasn’t looked back since, completing her Master of Osteopathic Medicine following her undergraduate studies in osteopathy.

Now a full-time osteopath in Newcastle, Bec combines her new career with her passion for surfing, also hosting surf clinics and appearing as a motivational speaker.

Tennyson Strong
Bachelor of Indigenous Studies graduate
Intensive Family Preservation Worker, Family Support Network

A love of history and a fascination with leaders who had orchestrated world-changing events, coupled with a desire to know more about the history of his own people, made the Bachelor of Indigenous Studies a natural academic choice for Tennyson Strong.

The Southern Cross graduate says the degree offered diverse career opportunities both during and after his studies. “The door was wide open to go into child protection, out-of-home care, family support, education, paralegal work and business studies."

Tennyson majored in trauma and healing, a specialisation that has seen him develop a career in child protection and family support.

“My typical work day can be anywhere between 7am and 7pm. Every day you are solving issues or helping people to solve those issues. Not all families are able to access information to solve problems so I bring the knowledge to the home. I help build parenting capacity and I work with the children to meet their milestones – whether they are educational, medical, social or emotional. It’s very satisfying work. The Gnibi College of Indigenous Australian Peoples at Southern Cross University has been at the forefront of Indigenous knowledge education for many years. One of the many innovative techniques used in teaching is connective art, a visual and narrative methodology for sharing knowledge in a group, similar to the spirit of ‘yarning’, an Indigenous way of sharing stories. Using design concepts and Indigenous knowledge, connective art generates interactions within a group using artworks and hidden word streams.

Lucas Handley
Bachelor of Marine Science and Management graduate
Marine scientist, free diving instructor and filmmaker

Lucas has always been a wild child. Growing up on the border of the Booyong rainforest in northern NSW, his playground was the creek and bushland around the family home. When the family moved to a nearby coastal suburb, his boyhood interest in the natural world shifted towards the ocean where a huge variety of marine life provided a never-ending array of wild encounters.

Marine science was a natural progression for Lucas and it became the backbone for his exploration of science and conservation through film and photography. “I was already involved in work around the ocean, but the degree I think legitimised what I was doing in film.”

Studies in marine science also led to the formation of an important professional network. “I became friends with many of my lecturers and it gave me a strong connection to the working scientific community, which was invaluable. Being able to do work abroad and do a lot of my study in flexible mode online gave me the opportunity to combine both.”

Following his appearance in the wildlife documentary ‘Blue’, Lucas hosted ‘Great Australian Bites’, a series based on five short films exploring both sides of the debate on shark conservation. “My work in film and documentaries is a good example of where contemporary marine science can take you.”

ENGLISH LANGUAGE REQUIREMENTS

Most applications must include evidence of English language proficiency. Academic IELTS is the bench-mark score indicated in the admission requirements for each course. All English language results must have been achieved in the last two years.

For undergraduate degrees the minimum score required is IELTS of 6.0 with no band less than 5.5 with the exception of health sciences, nursing and midwifery and social sciences degrees.

For most postgraduate degrees the minimum score required is IELTS of 6.5 overall.

The English language requirement may also be satisfied by completing an English for Academic Purposes or pathway program with SCU College (see page 21).

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS

The minimum academic requirement for undergraduate degrees is displayed in the ‘Academic Score by Country’ shown on the international tab for each course on the University website.

For postgraduate degrees, assessment is made on an equivalent Australian Bachelor degree plus any other course-specific requirements.

Advanced standing refers to previous study undertaken which may reduce the duration of your degree. You need to apply for advanced standing at the time of application.

When assessing applications against the relevant Academic Standards, the University will use accepted educational resources, including Australian Education International – National Office of Overseas Skills Recognition (NOOSR), United Kingdom National Recognition Information Centre (UK NARIC), University Admissions Centre Assessment of Qualifications Manual and the Queensland Tertiary Admissions Centre Schedule to establish the Australian equivalent of an applicant’s overseas qualifications.

For more information visit: scu.edu.au/international/apply

Please note that some courses in nursing, midwifery and health sciences have inherent requirements. Refer to important information on page 96 for further details.

‘English language comparable to Academic IELTS 6.0 with no band less than 5.5’ means to meet the English requirement the minimum overall IELTS score is 6.0, and no band in reading, writing, speaking or listening can be below 5.5.

STUDENT VISA
To study in Australia you must have a valid Australian visa. Student visas are temporary visas that allow people to come to Australia for a specified period to study at an Australian institution. International students applying for a student visa must undertake a full-time load of eight (8) units per year. Online units can be studied, providing it does not exceed one-third of the total units studied with final approval to be obtained from SCU International. In each compulsory study period, the student must study at least one face-to-face unit unless the student is completing the last unit of the course. International students are required to remain in their principle course for at least six (6) months before they can request a transfer to study at another education provider. For more information visit the Department of Home Affairs at: www.homeaffairs.gov.au

STUDENT VISA CONDITIONS
Make sure you are familiar with the conditions of your visa by reviewing the information set out on the Department of Home Affairs website.

FINANCIAL REQUIREMENTS
You must have sufficient funds to cover all education and living expenses for the duration of your studies. Refer to the More information for students’ under the ‘Studying in Australia’ section on the Department of Home Affairs website. www.homeaffairs.gov.au/trav/stud

BRINGING OTHER FAMILY MEMBERS
You may be eligible to bring family members depending on your visa. School-aged children must be enrolled at school. School fees will vary depending on school, age of child and if you are a scholarship holder. For a list of local schools visit: scu.edu.au/international/apply

ESOS
The Education Services for Overseas Students Act (ESOS) 2000, establishes legislative requirements and standards for the quality assurance of education courses to international students on a student visa in Australia. ESOS also provides tuition fee protection for international students. The revised National Code 2018 commenced on 1 January 2018 and sets nationally consistent standards that govern the protection and delivery of courses to international students by providers registered on the Commonwealth Register of Institutions and Courses for Overseas Students (CRICOS) visit: internationaleducation.gov.au

CRICOS
Higher educational providers in Australia must be registered to enrol overseas students in specific courses. Registered providers have a CRICOS (Commonwealth Register of Institutions for Overseas Students) code and a specific CRICOS course code. This registration guarantees the provider and the course meet the high standards necessary for overseas students.
Visit: cricos.education.gov.au

INHERENT REQUIREMENTS
Inherent requirements are the essential components of the course or unit that demonstrate abilities, knowledge and skills to achieve the core learning outcomes of the course or unit.
This applies to most health science, nursing, midwifery, social welfare and social work degrees.
For more information about inherent requirements refer to the course page for the relevant course at scu.edu.au

STUDENT ACCESS & INCLUSION

Tuition fees are due at the beginning of each study period, however you can pay all fees in advance.
